

Intent

At Little London Academy, we strive for our children to gain a coherent knowledge and understanding of Britain's past and that of the wider world. We will utilise the important role that history plays in preparing our children with knowledge that they can use for life, raising their aspirations and understanding of how to be a good and responsible citizen, aware of how our societies were formed and principles founded.

Implementation

As a school, we share the fundamental value of the end point when teaching history; a sound and concrete knowledge that the children will have obtained by the end of each topic. Every lesson has a clear learning intention that builds on prior knowledge and moves children on in their learning. These carefully planned lessons have been structured and sequenced in such a way that the lessons work as a series of upward steps that the children climb in order to reach that all important end point.

At Little London Academy, we value the concept of knowledge; ensuring children learn more and remember more so that progress is achieved. Our history lessons include knowledge organisers, knowledge recaps (Hi5's) and an end of unit assessment.

Exciting resources, visits, artefacts and trips enhance learning and bring history to life for the children in an engaging and memorable way.
